*Notes:

(a). The political proportionality rules technically do not apply to the Members' Code of Conduct Committee, but the Council previously agreed that all political groups, including a member of the Cabinet, should be represented on that Committee. In view of the increased number of groups on Council, this is not feasible. However having regard to the general principle of widest representation on this Committee, it is possible to allocate seats to five out of six groups within the constraints of the regulations.

(b). Two members of the Members' Code of Conduct Committee are independent, non-councillors.
